Continuation of 2. NOTE: The newly amended claims recite limitation "such that neither the first primer nor the second primer hybridizes to the polymorphic site" which requires further consideration and search because the new limitation was not present in the previous claims. The concern with regards to further consideration and search is the limitation and narrowing of the claims to primers which do not hybridize to the polymorphic site. The original claims in specification were drawn to primers which flank the polymorphic site exemplified in page 8 of the specification. So the focus on primers which do not hybridize to the polymorphic site will require further consideration and search.
